

Genesis 43

1. Has the famine continued?
2. Who makes the request?
3. What additional questions were asked by Joseph?
4. What conditions are presented?
5. What preparations are made?
6. What happens when they get to Egypt?
7. What is the greeting given by Joseph?
8. What kind of hospitality is given?
9. Why three tables?
10. How is Benjamin treated?
11. What was being tested by the larger portion?

It is no fault, but our wisdom and duty, to alter our purposes and resolutions when there is a good reason for our so doing. Constancy is a virtue, but obstinacy is not.

Those that would find mercy with men must seek it of God, who has all hearts in his hands, and turns them as he pleases.

It is our wisdom to reconcile ourselves to the sorest afflictions, and make the best of them; for there is nothing got by striving with our Maker.
